6.1.2 The effective leadership is visible in various institutional practices such as decentralization and participative management and a Case study.

The Board of management, CDC, Principal, IQAC, Committees, Coordinators/Convenors, and members of various statutory committees, etc. play a crucial role in the college development.

1. Decentralization- The college has a decentralized governance system. Various bodies and committees are constituted for the planning and deployment of college development plans. The committees are provided with operational autonomy to ensure excellence in college administration, teaching-learning, and evaluation process. The co-coordinators and members are given the freedom to formulate and take decisions to conduct activities and utilize the funds sanctioned and allotted. The coordinators have the liberty to nominate and involve interested students as members in different committees so that students have a participatory role in organizing activities in the college.

2. Participative Management- The college adopts an ambient culture of participative management for smooth and efficient administration. The college has a system of decentralized governance. Participative management works at various levels. Principal is the key person between Management, staff, and students. The teachers are appointed as coordinators, convenors for college programs. The senior supervisors, directors etc at university exams, and central assessment programs are appointed from the teachers. The college actively involves the Alumni in college activities by inviting them to various programs and functions. They contribute by delivering lectures on their respective areas of interest or different legal issues.

The teaching staff, administrative staff, students, alumni, and other stakeholders are given appropriate participation and active roles in the functionalities of college.

"Quality Legal education for professional competencies and Social transformation"
